DETAILED ACTION

Remark

1. This communication is responsive to the amendment and response dated September 13, 2005. Claims 43, 47, 48, 50, 54-55, 57, 61-62, 64-81, and 95-97 are presented for examination.

Response to Arguments

2. In response to the Applicant's argument that the Suzuki reference fails to teach the concept of averaging pixel information in an object image each for a region as a process (or the equivalence) of consolidating pixel information, the Examiner respectfully disagrees. For, at lines 37-42 of col. 6 of Suzuki, it is suggested that average value of pixel block of each color component is calculated for each region of a divided image. In view of the above, it is noted that since Suzuki teaches the concept of averaging pixel information each region in an object image, Suzuki, therefore, teaches the equivalence of consolidating pixel information by extraction and identifying. For, since Suzuki divides and calculates the average value of each pixel block, it is obvious that, in the process, the divided portion of the image object would need be identified and extracted, in order to result to the calculated average pixel information for each region in the object image. In view of the above, it is respectfully submitted that Suzuki teaches the process of consolidating information of each pixel regions and, Suzuki, when combined with Hsu, and Avinash, meets applicant's claimed invention. Thus, the rejections are sustained.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 43, 50, and 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hsu (US Pat. # 6151424) in view of Avinash (US Pat. # 5832134) and further in view of Suzuki (6118552).

Considering claim 43, Hsu and Avinash render obvious most claimed features of the invention as set forth in the previous office action, paper # 7; however, Hsu and Avinash fail to teach averaging information of each pixel in an object image each for a region (as the process of consolidating information for pixels of an image region).

Suzuki, in a similar art, teaches the concept of averaging information of each pixel in an object image each for a region [as the process of consolidating information for pixels of an image region]. See col. 6, lines 37-46. The Applicant is duly noted that in calculating the average data value of a pixel block, each and every pixel information of the image block is considered for the averaging and/or the consolidating step.)

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the features of Hsu and Avinash to include the calculated averaging information of each pixel in the same conventional manner as taught by Suzuki, in order to efficiently encode an image from an original document including a combination of monochrome and color regions. See Suzuki's col. 1, lines 10-12.

Claim 50 contains features that are analogous to the limitations recited in claim 43. Claim 50 is therefore rejected for the same reason.

Claim 57 is a computer program product performing the same method as apparatus claim 43 it is, therefore, rejected for the same reasons and rationale set forth for claim 43.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 47, 48, 54-55, 61-81, and 95-97 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Reason for Indicating Allowable Subject Matter:

Claims 47, 48, 54-55, 61-62, 67-81, and 95-97 are allowed for reasons indicated in the previous office actions. Claims 64-66 are allowed because the prior art fails to teach "extracting as object portion a region having a mean value smaller than a predetermined threshold out of a plurality of regions. As a result, the limitations of claims 47, 48, 54-55, 61-81, and 95-97 are allowed over the prior art.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
